SHOW ME THE EVIDENCE

Evidence-Based Practices for Supporting Students with ASD in Schools and Communities

August 10-13, 2009 | Holloway Commons | MUB | University of New Hampshire | Durham, NH

description

The goal of the Autism Summer Institute is to provide strength-based perspectives about students with Autism Spectrum Differences (ASD) to improve the quality of education in inclusive settings. Participants will gain knowledge and skills to evaluate and select supports and strategies based on research evidence that will enhance the full participation of students with ASD in their schools and communities. This Institute offers a unique combination of keynote presentations, breakout sessions, and "home" work groups.

The full Institute registration fee includes participation in all four days' activities, continental breakfast, lunch (Monday – Wednesday only), materials, and parking. A separate fee has been established for those registering for course credit and for those interested in attending one or more keynote presentations only.

who should attend?

The Autism Summer Institute is designed for, and will benefit, individuals with ASD and their families, teachers, paraprofessionals, speech and language pathologists, occupational therapists, physical therapists, school administrators, guidance counselors, psychologists, school-family educational teams (see registration form for group discount information), university students, and others.

scholarships & family support

Family and self-advocate scholarships may be available from several of our collaborators. For full details, please visit the Institute on Disability website at www.iod.unh.edu or call 603.228.2084.

professional development & course credit

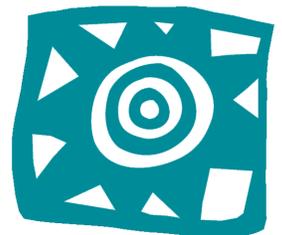

All participants will receive a Certificate of Participation. The Autism Summer Institute qualifies for 25 Staff Development Hours. Participants may earn 4 academic credits by registering for EDUC 757/857 in the Fall 2009 semester and attending the Autism Summer Institute (tuition and $99 conference fee apply). Please contact the course instructor, Cheryl M. Jorgensen, Ph.D., at cheryl.jorgensen@unh.edu for more information and permission to register.

registration & cancellation policies

Advance registration is required and accepted in the order received. Registration is not complete and confirmed until full payment or purchase order is received. To receive a full refund, cancellations must be made in writing at least seven (7) days prior to the event. Cancellations received within six (6) days of the event are not eligible for a refund.

Available in alternative formats upon request.

Ari Ne'eman, a young man who experiences Asperger's Syndrome, is the Founding President of the Autistic Self Advocacy Network, a non-profit organization of adults and youth on the autism spectrum. He first became involved in self-advocacy as a high school student, arguing for his own inclusion and access to high level academic coursework. He later became involved in disability and education policy advocacy. He is the Vice Chair of the NJ Adults with Autism Task Force and served on the New Jersey Special Education Review Commission. Ari is currently studying Political Science at the University of Maryland-Baltimore County as a Sondheim Scholar of Public Affairs.

Dan Habib is the director, producer and cinematographer of the documentary Including Samuel and is Filmmaker in Residence at the UNH Institute on Disability. Until joining UNH in April of 2008, Habib was the photography editor of the Concord Monitor since 1995. His freelance work, including extensive documentary work in China, has appeared in numerous publications, including Time, Newsweek, Yankee, Life, Boston Magazine, Mother Jones and the New York Times. Habib has been named New Hampshire Photographer of the Year six times.

Lana L. Collet-Klingenberg, Ph.D., is employed with the National Professional Development Center on Autism Spectrum Disorders at the Waisman Center, UW-Madison. Lana's professional experiences include teaching individuals with a wide range of abilities and challenges in school and community settings, pre-service and in-service teacher education and professional development, and participation on a number of federally funded projects related to teaching individuals with disabilities in the areas of communication, social skills, transition, and inclusive school environments.

Cathy Pratt, Ph.D. is the Director of the Indiana Resource Center for Autism at the Indiana Institute on Disability and Community located at Indiana University. Dr. Pratt is on faculty at Indiana University, and presents internationally on the topics of autism spectrum disorders, functional behavior assessment/positive behavior supports, instructional approaches, systems change, and policy. She currently serves as Chair of the Board for the National Autism Society of America, member of the advisory board for the National Professional Development Center on Autism Spectrum Disorders, and is co-director of the Network of Autism Training and Technical Assistance Programs (NATTAP).

Michael McSheehan, a project coordinator with the UNH Institute on Disability and Clinical Assistant Professor of Communication Sciences and Disorders, has been affiliated with the Institute on Disability since 1993. As a researcher and professional developer, Michael has published peer-reviewed articles, book chapter, and a forthcoming book (Summer 2009) in the areas of autism, augmentative communication (AAC), and access to and learning of general curriculum. He consults with various state departments of education and presents internationally.
